

PLEO™ SOFTWARE UPDATE 1.1 (MAC OS X 10.4 & 10.5)

Updating the software inside your Pleo is easy! The process will take approximately 5 minutes.

1. Click the blue Apple logo  or Download Mac Updater link to download the Pleo Updater to your desktop.

IMPORTANT: Make sure that Pleo's battery is fully charged before beginning this process.

2. Connect Pleo to your computer with a USB 2.0 A to Mini-B data cable. Plug the Type A (large) connector into your computer and the Mini-B (small) connector into the USB port in Pleo's belly and switch Pleo ON.

NOTE: Pleo will accept the update in any position, but it may be easiest to lay Pleo on his side. He won't mind, and his USB port and ON/OFF switch are easiest to access when he's lying down.

3. If the PleoUpdater_1.1.dmg is not mounted on your desktop, double-click the PleoUpdater_1.1.dmg icon to mount the disk image.

4. Double-click the application icon to launch Pleo Updater (Figure 1).

Figure 1: Pleo Updater Application icon

5. In the Pleo Updater splash screen, click the Continue button to begin the update (Figure 2).
6. Click Update to confirm that you want to update to the version shown. If you do not want to update to the version shown, click Cancel (Figure 3).

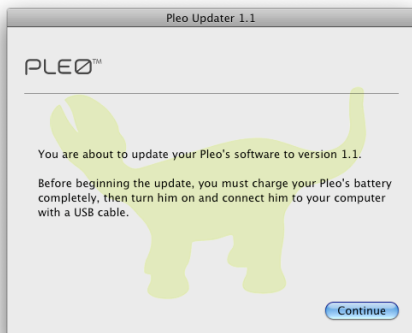

Figure 2: Pleo Updater splash screen

Figure 3: Confirmation screen

7. Review and agree to the Software License Agreement (Figure 4). Click I Agree to begin the update process. If you do not agree to the terms of the Software License Agreement, click Cancel.
8. An indicator bar will show the progress as the software transfers to Pleo (Figure 5).

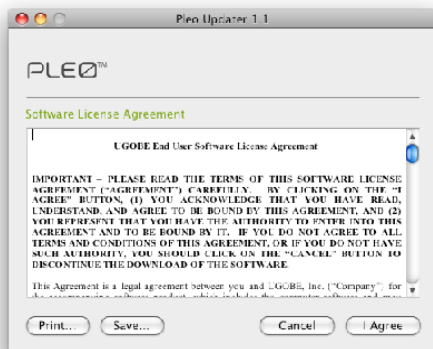

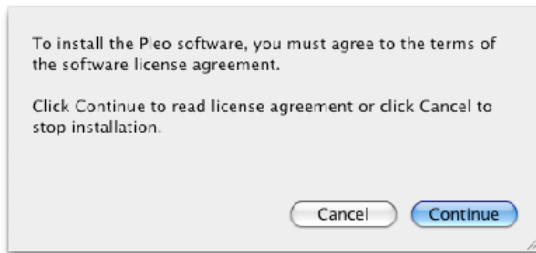

Figure 4: Software License Agreement

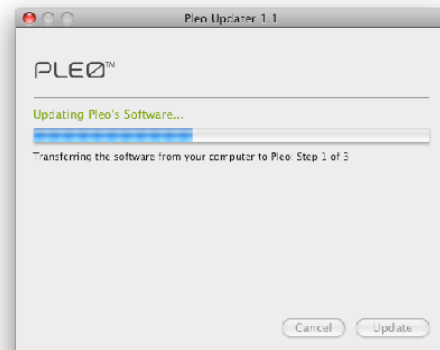

Figure 5: Transferring software to Pleo

9. When the update is complete, click Quit to close the application (Figure 6).

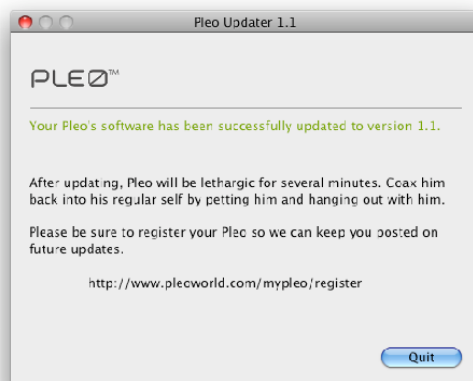

Figure 6: Close the application by clicking the Quit button.

10. When the update is complete, your Pleo will automatically restart, and the new software will be in place.

NOTE: After updating, Pleo will be lethargic for several minutes. Coax him back into his regular self by petting him and hanging out with him.

WHAT'S NEW IN PLEO 1.1?

- Pleo's attitude and emotions change based on how you interact with him. A happy Pleo is one who receives a lot of attention while a sad Pleo is one who is neglected or abused.
- Pleo may occasionally get sick - coughing and sneezing! Nurse him back to health by giving him lots of love and attention and feeding him his leaf.
- Pleo has learned a new trick - he knows how to sit! Try holding his chin and rear at the same time. He'll then pull his front and back feet together. Give him a nudge back by pushing down on his backside; don't forget to help him up when you want to keep playing.
- Petting Pleo on his chin for a long period of time will coax him to sing a variety of melodies, after which he will remember the song he stopped on and may use it for other things such as calling for attention.
- Pleo now recognizes his training leaf, and when he sees it he may open his mouth or call for it with a little panting sound.
- Pleo is tackling more difficult terrain (such as thick carpet) by using a specially triggered "high-step" mode. To trigger this new walk, hold Pleo's front legs and touch his Pleo button. He will keep using this walk until you reverse the command by touching the same sensors again or by powering Pleo off and then on again.
- Pleo has been picking up some strange habits as of late too - we've seen itchy feet and excessive chewing. What's your Pleo up to?

When updated to 1.1, Pleo needs new versions of the Holiday and Love-struck downloads. You can get the 1.1 compatible downloads from the 1.1 update page.

If you've been using third party applications such as YAPT or MySkit, you will also need to use a 1.1 compatible version. Check with the individual third party sites for those updates.

© 2008 UGOBE, Inc., Emeryville, CA

Pleo and UGOBE are trademarks of UGOBE, Inc.